

Internal Medicine Curriculum

Specialty: Medical Education

Director: Bob Bing-You, M.D., M.Ed.

Residents: Open to all residents. Two residents maximum at one time.

Duration: Flexible, 2 to 4 weeks

Goals: To improve one's teaching skills.

Objectives:

1. Establish effective methods to manage work rounds.
2. Develop group discussion techniques.
3. Apply teaching techniques to presentations.
4. Incorporate concepts into patient education.
5. (As per learning needs of resident).

Description:

Residents will develop a personal learning contract regarding their needs for improving their teaching skills. Residents will meet with Dr. Bing-You for at least one hour every day to review selected readings, discuss observations, review various learning and teaching theories, and plan instructional activities. A component of the rotation will include observation and critiquing of educational activities within any department (e.g., Grand Rounds, noon conference, work rounds). A syllabus of selected readings will be given to each resident. Residents will conduct 1-2 observed teaching activities with either medical students or fellow residents.

Call: None required.

Evaluation: Residents will perform a self-evaluation of their progress in meeting their goals. Teaching activities will allow feedback to residents as to their teaching skills.
